

It's Alright

*So once again, you find yourself alone
You wonder if anyone's listening
Open up the window & at the top of your lungs
You sing that song you've been pickin at
You don't always need someone
To tell you It's gonna get better if you want it to*

*Yeah it's alright, it's gonna be alright
We turn our face toward the sun*

*So you feel you're finally getting somewhere
With all this music that's in your bones
Try to find the lines that have slipped your mind
To give your tune a little bit of soul, yeah
You try to be creative, you feel like a god
When you breathe life into a song
And now all you really wanna know
Is there anybody out there as you're singing*

*What's kept you all of this time
They say you coulda done something with your life
You could've put on that 3-piece suit
Get yourself that 401K, a dental plan
Make sure that all your goals are in line with the man
Just don't dream too big-you don't wanna let yourself down*

*So what happens, what do you do
The next time you wanna change everything?
Do you sit yourself down and put it in a song
Or do you just break down and cry?*
